

Advanced Problem Behavior Training

This 4-week series is designed to provide parents of children with ASD, ADHD, and other Neurodevelopmental Disorders, with practical training and support to manage your child's difficult behaviors and teach different ways to gain control of your household and stop situations before they escalate.

Parents in this innovative program will be trained and supervised through the use of lecture, discussion and shared videos of their own children, to manage difficult home and community behaviors. Parents will be "teamed" together to help create a support network.
